BOWLS

Over the past three years, bowls have permeated every corner of foodservice—from fast food to sit down restaurants to school lunch. They became hugely popular in 2020 due to chefs seeking new ways to serve fresh ingredients in portable containers. This year, Nation's Restaurant News explored how the appeal of bowls is still increasing in our current, post-pandemic landscape. They've stayed popular because bowls allow you "to mix a lot of different, really neat flavors and not [have] a carbohydrate to hold it all together." That makes bowls extremely useful and desirable across different foodservice segments.

Check out our favorite bowl tips and recipes, perfect for all kinds of operations, in this trend bite at brakebush.com/trends or scan the code below!

One dish, many flavors. That's what a chicken bowl offers you in a fun-to-eat entree.
